

The Vanilla Noir Collection

Since launching at Milan Design Week 2015, Scarlet Splendour has emerged itself in the rich and innovative concept of luxury production and design. Founders Ashish Bajoria and Suman Kanodia have taken the design world by storm, becoming possibly the first design editors in India. Their debut collection Vanilla Noir was designed by Matteo Cibic, the 2017 winner of the Elle Décor India Design Award in the Young Talent category.

In search of inspiration for their first collection, Scarlet Splendour were captivated by the exquisite Indian handicraft of bone and horn inlay. Inspired by artisans from the northern region of Sarai Tarin, to Bengal in the East, and Trivandrum in the South, bone marquetry has long resulted in objets d'art that are both a connoisseur's delight, and a means of livelihood for millions.

Scarlet Splendour decided to make a contemporary version of the playfully geometric designs, which would be accepted across the world. Their Vanilla Noir collection draws its inspiration from the ancient technique, and translates it into contemporary designs.

Each piece of the Vanilla Noir collection is carefully constructed by Indian craftsmen using modern materials and pigments. A resin compound, replicating ivory inlay, is smoothed and lacquered onto a base of plywood, until there is no visible or tactile end. The unique combination of Indian Workmanship and Western aesthetic compliments both native Indian and Italian design whilst still paying homage to the brand's heritage.

Launched in Autumn 2017

General Guisto

The spectacular General Guisto is a colour rendition of Scarlet Splendour's contemporary study table, The General, that is reminiscent of a traditional desk. The use of geometric patterns, paired with modern materials, pays tribute to the brand's ethos.

Napoleon Cabinet

The Napoleon Cabinet is a gorgeous chest of drawers with resin inlay work in chic, geometrical patterns. The piece is a creative and contemporary addition to the Vanilla Noir collection which continues to reflect the timeless elegance of Scarlet Splendour.

Paris Bureau

An extraordinary console/writing table, the Paris Bureau features two drawers and is available in all Vanilla Noir colour variations. As with all pieces in the collection, Paris Bureau champions authenticity and exalts craftsmanship.
